

Snapshots Spring 2021

A Visual Overview of Our Recent Work

A note from our Executive Director,
It has been a really difficult year for all of us, but it feels like there is a light at the end of the tunnel. Just when Covid is no longer the threat it was a few months ago, Nepal and Kathmandu in particular, are facing the worst pollution in their history. For the past 5 days, the air quality in Kathmandu has been in the 450 range causing inflamed eyes, sore throats, and intense headaches. Visibility is less than 1,000 feet and it has been for days and there is no sign of relief! Still, our "on-the-ground" team is doing their best to monitor the nearly 50 children that have been recently reunited to assure their well-being and safety. NGN will always be where they are needed and this situation is no different.

You all have been there for us supporting the work we do. Thank you everyone for all you have given over the years and continue to do. You make it all possible!

Conor Reminisces on Meeting Anna

*"Okay, you HAVE to read this: I have exactly one mentor - Buddhist nun and Exec. Director of Next Generation Nepal, Anna Howe. In 2006, I was desperate to find anyone able to navigate the rebel-controlled Himalayan villages where all these trafficked kids were taken from. Anna, who lived in Kathmandu, came alongside me. She knew the mountains better than anyone, had helped hundreds of children, and faced down armed rebels by herself. Six years after we first met, Anna joined NGN officially and leads it to this day. She's given her whole life to these kids."- NGN's Founder Conor Grennan*

Reconnection Success!

Our Christmas rescue has already resulted in children being reconnected with their families. Once our team makes sure that they will go back to a safe environment, that is free from the risk of being re-trafficked, they will be fully reintegrated and home for good.

Two Goats for the Family

These two children were rescued by the government of Nepal and NGN in February of 2020. Our team was able to find their family and return them fairly quickly. And then Covid hit, making even basic needs unable to be met! During our team's monitoring visits, they saw that the family had fallen on very difficult times. NGN had no choice but to increase family support to them. The family requested 2 goats that they believed would help them sustain themselves over time. We readily agreed and two goats were searched for by the family and our team - not just any goats, but two pregnant goats that would live and be cared for by the family. Providing a long-term solution that will grow and help support the family for years to come will take some of the economic pressure off the family for a long time to come.

Your Donations Make This Work Happen!!

As always we are grateful for your support.

Best Regards,
Anna Howe
